Club News:

The September meeting was held on September 11th. We welcomed two new members who were voted into the club during the meeting. Our new club members are Lisa Harler and Sherri Harler.

Signup for Fall Training Classes was held on September 8th. Eighteen (18) dogs signed up.

Our Christmas dinner will be December 6th at the Barn on York. Remember to bring a doggie gift to donate to the Humane Society. Pat Smith wants pictures for the Christmas dinner slide show so be sure to send her lots of pictures.

There is a gene test for Degenerative Myelopathy that can now be given to determine if your dog is a carrier of DM, is clear of DM or at a much higher risk for developing DM. The test can be ordered from the Orthopedic Foundation for Animals (OFA) and can be done by you and sent back to the University of Missouri to be read. The Cost is $65.00.

Here is a link to Obedience photos that Pat Smith has provided us.

Breed of the month:

Chihuahua

With its big eyes, big ears, and bigger-than-life attitude, the Chihuahua is the epitome of cocky canine in a petite package. In other words, this pint-sized pet is master of his universe and fears nothing, characteristics that make him a most suitable pet for some people and the worst possible choice for others.

WWW.LRKC.COM

The Chihuahua is the smallest of the AKC registered breeds, weighing in at two-to-six pounds. The overall appearance is of a fine-boned but muscular dog. The head is distinctive with its rounded skull, large eyes, and large ears that perk upright when the dog is alert and flare out to the sides of the head when the dog is resting.

Chihuahuas come in two varieties. Smooth-coated Chihuahuas have a soft, glossy, and close coat that is full over the body and scanty on the head and ears. The long-coated dogs have a longer soft coat that can be flat or slightly curly and must have an undercoat. The tail on a long-coat resembles a plume; the ears, feet, and legs are feathered; and the neck carries a ruff. Either coat can be any solid color or can be marked or splashed with color on a white background.

The Chihuahua’s loyalty and affinity for being close to his master or mistress makes him an amiable companion, and his size makes him a convenient one. He is best suited for mature adults.

At home the Chihuahua is saucy, terrier like, curious and mischievous. Left to his own devices, the little guy might decorate the entire house with a roll of toilet paper, make confetti out of the mail, or commandeer your bed or favorite chair as his own. Although he is not much bigger than a minute, he could also wind up as master of the household, for he can manipulate owners with great finesse. However, some Chihuahuas carry “saucy” and “terrier-like” to extremes and are grumpy, haughty, or downright nasty when provoked – and provocation may come easy. Chihuahuas are not suited to families with small children.

Chihuahuas have a distinct liking for others of their own breed and an equally distinct dislike for dogs of other breeds. Therefore, if you want more than one dog, make the additional dogs Chihuahuas. And if you already have a dog of another breed, consider carefully before getting a Chihuahua. The indomitable spirit of the Chihuahua also causes problems when the little dog spars with a large breed dog, especially one with a dominant personality or a high prey drive. It is best to always keep a Chihuahua on a leash or carried in arms so it cannot challenge a big dog to a duel it will surely lose.
